

The Citizen.

BRIEF NOTES.

How hunters' see advertisement in the paper, in our columns, 3d page.

Robert Reed and his comedy company will play "The Woman Hater" at the hall on the 9th.

Photographs of the scholars of the school in class groups have been taken.

Mr. Wm. S. Pitarini is returning from on board the Gulf Line steamer, which sailed from Liverpool on Saturday.

Mr. Elias W. Chittling, who is well known in connection with retail dry goods, will be found at W. V. Snyder & Co. this week.

A petition is being circulated in Montclair asking for a vote on incorporation with the town of Bloomfield.

Mr. J. L. Adams, a former well-known resident of Bloomfield, and father-in-law of Dr. Chas. H. Bailey, died on Monday in New York City last Friday.

The marriage of Rev. John Schuetz and Miss Haver, daughter of Professor Haver of the German Theological Seminary, is announced to take place shortly.

The subscription to the capital stock of the Bloomfield Bank reached $47,300 on Thursday evening. It is probable that the subscription will be closed by the end of the present week.

Mr. R. M. Stiles received a telegram on Tuesday notifying the family of the death of Mrs. E. P. Carmichael at Augusta, Ga. Mr. Stiles accompanied the body to the funeral.

Parties running short of their winter supply and desiring to purchase the very best, will find it profitable to call on or address Mr. Murray for terms and prices. He has on hand 1000 tons best Jeddite.

Mr. George Sedgwick and Miss Helen Bell, both of Bloomfield, were married on Wednesday night at the residence of Rev. George A. Paul, of Westminster (church) performed the ceremony.

The Mutual Aid Association of Phila. Council No. 35, N. P. U., will meet at Knights of Honor Hall on Monday evening, Feb. 4th, at 7:30 P. M. sharp. All citizens of the N. P. U. are invited. Regular Council meeting at 8:20 P. M.

Some idea of what may be expected from the East Orange Sewerage system in Bloomfield residents was experienced on Monday night by a number of gentlemen passing on their way home from the public meeting. All of them said that the stench arising from the sewer of Second River was nauseating. They are all positive in their assertion that the stench was directly attributable to the overflow from the disposal works in Glenwood avenue.

Jersey City is about to have a new sewer of two cent paper. It will be called the New and will be based upon the New York which has been purchased from Mr. Sackett by Mr. James Luby and Mr. Wm. Fuller, both of whom leave positions on the New York Herald to go to the venture. We wish them success.

Mr. Fisher, who also gives up a position on the New York Herald, and Mr. Sackett, the late owner of the Sunday Morning News of Jersey City, are to be in the new combination. These gentlemen make a strong four-in-hand team, and we see no reason why they should not soon make a circulation that will keep their New Bulluck Perfecting Press busy.

Glen Ridge Items.

There have been some heavy transfers of real estate in Glen Ridge the past week in the vicinity of Clark street and the railroad track.

Tickets for the Charity Ball to be given in Montclair, Monday evening, Feb. 5th, may be obtained from Mr. A. G. Dixon of Mrs. G. W. Berrian, Glen Ridge.

List of letters remaining unclaimed at the Post Office at Glen Ridge, Feb. 1st: Miss A. E. E. Chase, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Fleming, Mr. David, Mr. E. R. McLaughlin, John, Wrentham, N. Y. Any person calling for the above will please ask for advertised letters.

THOMAS MORITZ, P. M.

The "informal" at the Glen Ridge Club House, Wednesday evening, was attended by about forty ladies and gentlemen. The entertainment consisted of some very good music by Mrs. Lockwood and Mr. Hight, vocalists, and Misses Ward and Hance, pianists, followed by progressive euchre, refreshments and dancing. The entire prizes were carried off by Mrs. Skinner and Mr. Dunham.

The Glen Ridge Congregational Church has been presented with a beautiful plot by the Gallagher estate. The plot is on the corner of Highland avenue and Clark street and is one of the most desirable and valuable in that vicinity. The church is certainly to be congratulated, as this most generous gift together with the already promised cash subscriptions, make the early erection of a church or chapel almost a certainty.

Not the least attractive feature of the Glen Ridge society is the Ladies' Reading Club which meets each week at the residence of Miss Hance. The meetings are not only very delightful from a social standpoint, but are likewise useful and instructive. The example of this little club might well be followed with advantage by the ladies of other neighborhoods. None of this sort of social intercourse will be less of the meeting together of two ladies for gossip and much more endurable.

Church Notes.

Preparatory services will be held in Westminster Church this evening, to close the communion Sunday.

The communion meeting held on Thursday at Westminster Church was addressed by Rev. Dr. Storer. Dr. Hickok being unusually absent.

The annual meeting of the Bloomfield Young Men's Society will be held in the parlors of Westminster Church on Sunday afternoon, Feb. 7th, at 2:30 P. M. All the collectors, contributors, and friends interested in any way are invited to attend.

Professor Moore, crayon artist and lecturer, entertained a large audience at the lecture room of the first Freebeyrian Church on Monday night. The occasion was the regular meeting of the Young People's Evening.

Here and There.

Some one said last Saturday to a humble individual who was assiduously minding other people's business as he strolled along, "Who are all those young ladies going down Franklin street?" And the humble individual at once assumed a most important air, for it so happened that he did know who they were, where they had been, and where they were going. So, as he always tells all he knows, he cheerfully gave the desired information.

A luncheon for twelve girls had been given by Miss Duffell and nearly all the guests were from out of town. They were Miss Rulison and Miss Blanche Rulison, Miss Goodwin and Miss Helen Goodwin from B. thelem, Pa., Miss Keith from New York, Miss Schneider and Miss Besse Schneider from South Orange, Miss Stockton from Newark, and her friend, Miss Bonwill, of Philadelphia, Miss Causey, who has been visiting Mrs. C. F. Harrison, and Miss Ward, of Bloomfield.

Then, being a man, the individual in question couldn't tell any more about it, because he never in his life, for obvious reasons, had been to a girl's luncheon; so it puzzled him where a very beautiful young lady, in his opinion, was going to a "blue luncheon" by a young person who knew all about it, and who looked, despite her remark, as if she had never known a blue moment in all her rose colored existence.

However, there are places in this world where a man is sometimes wanted, and a little later in the day, as the humble individual watched the crowd of people passing in and out of the doors of Mr. A. G. Darwin's house in Glen Ridge, he felt that he really didn't mind not being a girl.

"These are not all of them Ward McAllister's Four Hundred," he was told, "but they're Jersey's Four Hundred, which is just as well."

Near the door stood Mrs. Darwin, and after the individual reached home he was told that she wore a very beautiful black gown, and that Miss Josephine Darwin, who greeted her guests over a huge bouquet of exquisite pink roses, wore a dress which matched the flowers. That, however, he knew for himself, but somebody had to tell him that Miss Gray wore "white over robin's egg blue" as she assisted the hostesses in their duties. Beyond her, also performing the same kindly office, were Mrs. Norman White in a heavy white gown with a train; Miss McIntosh in black velvet with a front of white and gold; Miss Katie Crane, in pale lemon color; and Mrs. John E. Wilson in a long gown of white silk.

And then, after the fashion of the men, the observer gradually drifted out toward the supper room, where for a moment, he forgot what he had come for in his admiration for the mass of flowers which adorned the table. By-and-by he remembered, and afterward—well he was glad he had drifted, and as the stream bore him away he heard a voice saying softly, "Oh, those beautiful pink paper water-lilies! I'm going to take my eye very carefully to save the flower for a souvenir."

And so, having left the House Beautiful the humble individual descended the Hill of Difficulty, struck the Slough of Despond at the bottom, passed slowly on, and finally fell to wondering and forgot to observe.

"How much of Bloomfield is going to be at the Montclair Charity Ball next week?" asked that same Some One who makes the Humble Individual's life a burden by his interrogation points; and as, in reply, he checked them off on his fingers, he found that he had to use both hands.

The ladies belonging to the Sewing Society of Westminster Church were very solemn faces last Wednesday, and Some One said that it was because they had provided a bountiful lunch in the church parlors for the members of the Church, and—well most of it was there yet, and everyone wondered where the ladies were.

Townley-Thomas.

Morris Place was the scene of a brilliant home wedding on Wednesday evening. The residence of Mr. Geo. Thomas, on Bay avenue, presented a scene of animation and gaiety. The parlors were beautifully decorated with flowers, the occasion being the marriage of Mr. Thomas's daughter, Frances M. and Mr. Louis J. Townley, of Mr. Vernon. There was a large assemblage of guests. Rev. H. W. Ballantine, of the First Presbyterian Church performed the ceremony. The bridesmaids were Misses Grace and Eunice Townley, sisters of the groom, and Miss Georgie Thomas, sister of the bride, all beautifully attired. The bride wore a costume of white silk and tulle trimmed with gold lace, and carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley. The best men were Edward Townley, brother of the groom, Ward Thomas, brother of the bride, and Daniel Earl. After the ceremony a reception was tendered at the conclusion of which the happy couple left on an extended wedding tour. Mr. and Mrs. Townley will reside at Mr. Vernon.

A Profitable Evening.

Those in attendance at the Second Anniversary of the Y. M. C. A. on Wednesday evening had indeed the pleasure of enjoying a most delightful and profitable exercise. Ample justice was done to the occasion in all respects. From the reading of Scriptures and prayer by Rev. Chas. A. Cook, to the closing remarks by State Secretary, D. Moore, the exercises were one rare treat. The address of Rev. A. N. Hollifield, D. D., consisted of one solid mass of sound matter of fact argument. His subject, "The Perils of Young Men, and How to Save Them," was a most appropriate one for the occasion. Home life and training, mission of the Church, and the Y. M. C. A. as a factor in accomplishing that which the Church left undone were so plainly depicted that no one who was not formerly prejudiced against the work, could fail to see the need and merits of the Y. M. C. A. in Bloomfield. The statement that 32 young men were seen passing into one saloon in one hour on a rainy night last week, and 58 in another caused much surprise. Full particulars of this excellent address will be given at a future publication of THE CITIZEN. It is hoped that due attention will be paid to it.

D. F. Moore, in his able remarks, most earnestly urged the support and advancement of the work, and gave a general insight into what other towns of smaller population than Bloomfield are doing for their young men. His statements were well received. Another prominent and entertaining feature of the evening was the music rendered by the Euterpean Society. Their selections and rendition evinced excellent taste and musical ability. A large and appreciative audience attended.

In consequence of the failure of Mr. Latham to keep his engagement, the Lecture Committee substituted the Park Sisters, the instrumental quartette of Boston. Their program is one of rare excellence. As this is the last entertainment of the course we trust it shall have a full house.

Amusements.

Dockstader's celebrated minstrels are to give one of their popular and pleasing performances in Orange Music Hall tonight, Feb. 2, a large and fashionable audience is sure to be present.
